The non-unit reserves are present value of expenses less present value of charges. The present value of charges is currently classified under "Present value of benefits" and is a negative number as it results in a lower reserve.

The total reserves for the single premium products is negative as the present value of charges is higher than the present value of expense plus PAD. The reduced reserves is mainly due to a revision in the reserving methodology to be fully consistent with the level of prudence required by regulations. This is also described in Notes to Form 1.
