Ms. Tan Lay Hoon, CFA, President, CFA Society Singapore	We've been working with MoneySense and key partners for the past few years to help Singapore investors improve their financial knowledge and investment skills, through seminars, talks, newspaper columns and portfolio simulations. Raising financial literacy, and helping investors to know their rights and how to exercise them, are all part of the core mission of CFA Society Singapore. We're delighted to join WIWS this year to help strengthen efforts in this area.
Mr Vijayarengan Maheantharan Centre Director, MoneySENSE Singapore Polytechnic Institute For Financial Literacy	The Institute for Financial Literacy has always advocated caution and arming oneself with knowledge before making any investment decision. This message is even more pertinent now given the uncertainties in the markets.
